

One Job. Endless Possibilities.

It's what you make of it.

At first, it's "only" powder, but then you come and turn it into exactly what the customer needs ... Welcome to the EOS team! We, more than 1.250 employees worldwide who are passionate about technology, invite you to share in our enthusiasm in revolutionizing today's production through the technology of the future, the industrial 3D printer. Stir up international markets as a part of an independent family business. Discover the unlimited opportunities that our working environment offers in all things concerning additive manufacturing.

Think, feel and experience EOS in 3D as

Working Student (m/f/d) Online Marketing

Location: Krailling or remote (in Germany)

HERE'S WHAT YOU'LL BE DOING:

- You are already familiar with CMS systems? You enjoy designing websites and creatively implementing digital content? Help us shape the future of EOS. We are looking for you to support our digital marketing team!
- As a working student you will be involved in the editing and further development of the global EOS website, the implementation of digital campaigns and the continuation of existing dialogue marketing measures.
- You like writing content in German and English and enjoy working on topics such as SEO, GoogleAds & Co.
- You are good with numbers, evaluate marketing measures and create presentations about them. Sometimes you also like to deal with technical questions.

You would be excited to work with us, but you are not in Munich?

No problem - you can also work remotely (in Germany) as long as you have a fast and reliable internet connection available.

HERE'S WHAT WE ARE LOOKING FOR:

You are an open and creative personality and have a passion for digital media? On top of that you can think your way into technical contexts and enjoy supporting the further expansion of EOS's online marketing activities? Great!

Furthermore, you bring along the following:

- Studies in business administration, humanities or communication science
- Initial practical experiences in marketing, ideally in digital communication
- Fun at editorial work
- Very good German and English skills in word and writing

HERE'S WHAT YOU CAN EXPECT AT EOS:

- You will already take on responsibility from day one and drive forward different action areas.
- Be part of the exciting world of 3D printing, enjoy the culture and atmosphere of an international family business that thrives on a culture of values – these are only a few things that will shape your everyday life with us.
- At EOS, you can expect remuneration for your internship.
- Joint student events ensure that you can also make contacts across departments.
- Healthy working environment – we apply all measures which are necessary due to Covid-19.

Shape your fascination for technology with a pioneer of 3D printing – nowhere else will you have the chance to frame the future so directly than at EOS! Take the next step forward in your career and apply now!
